Rule Modified

3. The PRA directs that the following rules are modified in respect of the Firm:

Rule
Financial Conglomerate 2.7	The calculations referred to in Annex 1 regarding the balance sheet must be made on the basis of the aggregated balance sheet total of the members of the consolidation group, according to their annual accounts. For the purposes of this calculation: (1) the consolidation group's funds under management that would otherwise not be included in the aggregated balance sheet total shall be treated as on-balance sheet items; and (2) undertakings in which a participation is held must be taken into account as regards the amount of their balance sheet total corresponding to the aggregated proportional share held by the consolidation group. However, where consolidated accounts are available, they must be used instead of aggregated accounts.
Financial Conglomerates 2.1 Annex 1	THRESHOLD TEST 1 Does the ratio of the balance sheet total of the members of the consolidation group in the overall financial sector (which, for these purposes, should include the consolidation group's funds under management, which would otherwise not be included in the aggregated balance sheet total) to the balance sheet total of the consolidation group as a whole (which, for these purposes, should include the consolidation group's funds under management, which would otherwise not be included in the aggregated balance sheet total) exceed 40%? Article 2(14)(b)(i)
Financial Conglomerates 2.1 Annex 1	THRESHOLD TEST 2 Does, for each financial sector, the average of (1) the ratio of the balance sheet total of that financial sector (which, for these purposes, should include the consolidation group's funds under management, which would otherwise not be included in the aggregated balance sheet total) to the balance sheet total of the overall financial sector (which, for these purposes, should include the consolidation group's funds under management, which would otherwise not be included in the aggregated balance sheet total); and (2) The ratio of the solvency and capital adequacy requirements of the same financial sector to the total solvency and capital adequacy requirements of members in the overall financial sector; exceed 10%? Article 2(14)(a)(iii) and Article 2(14) (b)(iii)

6. The grant of this direction is based upon, among other factors, the PRA's expectation that, whilst this direction has effect, the Firm will, in accordance with 5.2 Permissions and Waivers of the PRA Rulebook, promptly notify the PRA of any change to the circumstances of its Group which may be relevant to the exercise by the PRA of its powers of decision under the legal framework that implemented Article 3(3) of Financial Groups Directive. The obligation on each Firm to notify set out in the preceding sentence will be treated as discharged where such notification has been made by another Firm.

7. Where the conditions for the grant of this waiver cease to be met, the PRA may revoke this direction, in whole or in part.
